

Hands Free in Georgia from July 1st, 2018

Are you ready?

The amended “Anti-Texting Law” now bans drivers from holding or resting phones while they use them anywhere on their bodies, period.

The law allows people to dial phone numbers and adjust GPS navigation, as long as the phone is in a holder, on the seat, or on the console (again, not on the person). The law allows zero device-touching for texting, adjusting streaming apps, social media, emails, or anything else.

Drivers can do those things completely hands-free or through a car entertainment system in the dashboard.

And the law completely bans watching or shooting videos from behind the wheel of a moving vehicle.
